Empowering the Next Generation of Changemakers

Are you ready to develop the leadership skills that will set you apart in school, college, and beyond? This four-day immersive training introduces high school students to the Adaptive leadership framework developed by Prof. Ron Heifetz at Harvard Kennedy School, a globally renowned leadership model that equips individuals to navigate uncertainty, drive meaningful change, and solve real-world challenges.

ABOUT THE BOOTCAMP

This program is designed to help students think critically, lead adaptively, and create tangible social impact in their communities. It blends theoretical insights with hands-on projects, ensuring that students leave with an actionable public service plan they can implement in their schools or neighborhoods.

BOOTCAMP HIGHLIGHTS

Differentiate between technical and adaptive challenges in problem-solving.

Develop and present a public service action plan to tackle challenges in education, sustainability, or community welfare.

Learn Adaptive Leadership principles from Harvard's globally recognized framework.

Engage in real-world leadership simulations, debates, and stakeholder mapping exercises.

Gain mentorship from a Harvard alum who studied Adaptive Leadership and implemented these principles in real-world settings.

WHY ADAPTIVE LEADERSHIP?

Prof. Ron Heifetz is a world-renowned leadership expert whose course on Adaptive Leadership is one of the most popular at Harvard Kennedy School. His approach has transformed government leaders, corporate executives, and social entrepreneurs worldwide.
